

Toxicological Emergencies

FRIDAY 25 MARCH 2022 | PERTH

This workshop, presented by leading specialists in their field, has been designed to offer practising rural medical practitioners an update in toxicological emergencies.

This one day workshop stream covers general and specific topics related to poisoning and local toxicology, using an interactive tutorial format concentrating on small group discussions of case scenarios.

The workshop content includes:

- Understand the pathophysiology and clinical effects of common envenomation (snake, spider and marine).
- Improve ability to decide on patient disposition and appropriately stabilise patients for transport.
- Improve understanding of the appropriate use of first aid and investigations Identify and list common poisonings.
- Apply a systematic diagnostic approach in toxicological presentations to increase patient safety.

This workshop is approved for the Rural Procedural Grants Program. Please contact your relevant college before attending, to ascertain your eligibility.

Cost: $440.00 (Inc. GST)

Eligibility: Medical practitioners, GPs, ED doctors and Nurse practitioners. Priority is given to those currently practising rural and remote.

Registration: Click here to register your interest for the workshop. All successful applicants will receive written confirmation and an invoice for payment.

For further information, please contact:

Continuing Professional Development Coordinator

T 08 6389 4500
E cpd@ruralhealthwest.com.au

This organisation is an authorised provider of Accredited Activities under the RACGP QI&CPD Program in the 2020-2022 triennium.

Australian College of Rural & Remote Medicine
WORLD LEADERS IN RURAL PRACTICE

This organisation is accredited by ACRRM in the 2020-2022 triennium.